Rosemary,

Thanks for the opportunity to meet with Administrator Regan.

When might be a good time to follow up with you – and perhaps include 2 or 3 additional funders and thought leaders - for them to hear from Administrator or how the support we are providing can best address the needs identified.

Or would you prefer that debrief solo first on how to prioritize? June will be here before we know it, so would love to look at potential dates.

Re follow up contacts:

We see online the best number for Peter Tsirigotis is: 919-541-5616

What is the best email for follow up.

For the HBCU Council of Presidents, who is the best contact for me to follow up with?

Thanks again. I welcome your feedback!

Best,
Danielle

2. Might we find time 20 minutes to prep? I know we shared a draft agenda below but would value the opportunity to touch base further about mutual areas of interest.

All best and thanks again.

Rosemary –

I hope that all is well on this rainy day in the DMV!

I wanted to follow up regarding scheduling a meeting between EPA Administrator Regan and the CEO of the Bezos Earth Fund.

Might you be able to share potential dates that would work? Fiona McRaith, Chief of Staff to our CEO Andrew Steer, is copied, together with our colleagues to help with scheduling.

Might it be easier to jump on the phone with the scheduling staff?

To recap:

As you know the Bezos Earth Fund has made significant grants to support climate and environmental justice organizations that serve a wide range of communities being hardest hit by the climate crisis. As you know these organizations are working on solutions that will benefit their underserved communities while solving the climate crisis.

Many are working to make the Biden Administration's Justice40 initiative a success.

These grantee partners include scholars like Dr. Bob Bullard (whom the Administrator met with recently), as well as environmental justice organizations like WeAct for Environmental Justice and the Asian Pacific Environment Network (whose former ED is on the White House Environmental Justice Council).

Our goal would be to benefit from Administrator Regan's perspective on how future grantmaking could maximize its impact both in the US and abroad, and explore opportunities for multi-sector collaboration.

Relevant materials/context: As a reminder, in a prior role I help shepherd the release of the "Making Justice40 a Reality" report that was released by UCLA in collaboration with movement leaders several weeks ago. EPA staff leaders were invited to attend the briefing for federal government leaders.

I am also the National Academies of Sciences Accelerating Decarbonization in the US Energy System committee, which provided recommendations to Congress and federal agencies last year.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,
Danielle

Might we kick off again to see if we might find time from the CEO of the Earth Fund, Andrew Steer, to meet with Administrator Regan? We would be grateful to understand Sec. Regan's priorities and potential opportunities for collaboration.

Thanks in advance for all of your help!

Dear Rosemary,

I hope that this finds you well since we last "saw" each other when you were on the panel for the March on Washington Film Festival!

I am writing on behalf of the Bezos Earth Fund in the hopes of scheduling a conversation with Administrator Regan and you, to meet with the Andrew Steer, the CEO of the Bezos Earth Fund, and me. I am the director of the Equitable Climate Solutions program at the Fund.

As you know the Bezos Earth Fund has made significant grants to support climate and environmental justice organizations that serve a wide range of communities being hardest hit by the climate crisis. As you know these organizations are working on solutions that will benefit their underserved communities while solving the climate crisis. Many are working to make the Biden Administration's Justice40 initiative. These grantee partners include scholars like Dr. Bob Bullard (whom the Administrator met with recently), as well as environmental justice organizations like WeAct for Environmental Justice and the Asian Pacific Environment Network (whose former ED is on the White House Environmental Justice Council).

EPA staff leaders were invited to attend the briefing for federal government leaders. I am also the National Academies of Sciences Accelerating Decarbonization in the US Energy System committee, which provided recommendations to Congress and federal agencies earlier this year.

On the international front, you likely saw that during the UN COP summit in Glasgow last month, the fund made a major pledge to support conservation, restoration and food systems transformation, including a focus on Africa (Congo Basin).

Thank you for considering our meeting request given our mutual goals! Andrew and I are in the Washington, DC area and would be happy to meet in person at a location of the Administrator's choosing. Might a meeting in January be possible? We look forward to scheduling a conversation. Thanks again for your leadership and service!

Best,
Danielle

We have an all-staff team retreat most of next week, so unfortunately those dates are not great for us.

Would you like us to huddle on dates on our end and send a couple of suggestions for the week after next? If so Jacqui can provide. Or would you prefer, given the folks on your end that all need to attend, to send us some a few dates for the week after next and we'll do our best accommodate?

Subject: Resending: request to meet EPA Administrator Regan from Bezos Earth fund CEO Andrew Steer

Rosemary –

I hope that all is well on this rainy day in the DMV!

I wanted to follow up regarding scheduling a meeting between EPA Administrator Regan and the CEO of the Bezos Earth Fund.

Might you be able to share potential dates that would work? Fiona McRaith, Chief of Staff to our CEO Andrew Steer, is copied, together with our colleagues to help with scheduling.

Might it be easier to jump on the phone with the scheduling staff?

To recap:

As you know the Bezos Earth Fund has made significant grants to support climate and environmental justice organizations that serve a wide range of communities being hardest hit by the climate crisis. As you know these organizations are working on solutions that will benefit their underserved communities while solving the climate crisis.

Many are working to make the Biden Administration's Justice40 initiative a success.

These grantee partners include scholars like Dr. Bob Bullard (whom the Administrator met with recently), as well as environmental justice organizations like WeAct for Environmental Justice and the Asian Pacific Environment Network (whose former ED is on the White House Environmental Justice Council).

Our goal would be to benefit from Administrator Regan's perspective on how future grantmaking could maximize its impact both in the US and abroad, and explore opportunities for multi-sector collaboration.

Relevant materials/context: As a reminder, in a prior role I help shepherd the release of the "Making Justice40 a Reality" report that was released by UCLA in collaboration with movement leaders several weeks ago. EPA staff leaders were invited to attend the briefing for federal government leaders.

I am also the National Academies of Sciences Accelerating Decarbonization in the US Energy System committee, which provided recommendations to Congress and federal agencies last year.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Danielle

Just EPA

Catie, would you coordinate with the scheduling time to offer up additional times in April that would be possible for the Administrator?

Would you like us to huddle on dates on our end and send a couple of suggestions for the week after next? If so Jacqui can provide. Or would you prefer, given the folks on your end that all need to attend, to send us some a few dates for the week after next and we'll do our best accommodate?

Two things:

1. Would you like us to send a calendar invitation or do you have some other protocol?
2. Might we find time 20 minutes to prep? I know we shared a draft agenda below but would value the opportunity to touch base further about mutual areas of interest.

All best and thanks again.

Hello Catie,

We are so pleased to have confirmed the meeting with EPA Administrator Regan, Bezos Earth Fund CEO Andrew Steer, and Director of Equitable Climate Solutions, Danielle Deane-Ryan, for April 29th at 2:00 pm ET.

I will initiate a calendar invitation with the pending location preference for the confirmed time. Andrew and Danielle would be pleased to meet in the DC area at any place of the Administrator's choosing since they live in the DC metro area, as well. Please let us know if an in-person meeting is available or if a zoom call is preferred.

Are there any additional attendees you would like me to include on this invitation?

Thank you as well for sending over the calendar invitation for the planning pre-meeting on April 14th for Rosemary, Danielle, and yourself.

All the best,
Jacqui

Ashley,
Hello!

I am checking in for the Zoom link that Rosemary shared that you would send for the Friday Bezos Earth Fund CEO call w/ EPA Administrator Regan.

Might you be able to invite everyone as planned?

Thank you.
Best,
Danielle
